According to This, It is Little Less Than a Sin to Get Impatient With One of Them.

One member of the family was quarreling over the wire with the telephone operator at the other end. When the brief dispute was ended another member of the family said: "You ought not to do that. You ought never to say an impatient word to a telephone operator. You can't do enough to make the work easy for them. Were you ever in a telephone exchange?"

"No," replied the guilty one, looking repentant.

"Well, go to the first one you have an opportunity to visit. The manager will have some one show you through, and you never will lose patience again with one of those girls. You will be humiliated and amazed and instructed to see what wonderful work they do-what impersonal, patient and really self-sacrificing work they perform, hour after hour-nerve-racking, straining work for a thankless public. You will respect and esteem every one of them and you will feel that nothing is too good for them, instead of being critical of a slight mistake that may at times creep in. The wonder is that they do anything right, considering the difficulties with which they have to contend, instead of giving us the really marvelous service Scotch terrier. A cheap wagon is painted to hide defects in the wood and make it look attractive to the purchaser.

Even the paint is of poor quality and wears off quickly, leaving the wood exposed to the weather.

A Studebaker is painted to preserve the wood and protect it from the elements. Even when the boxing is forced into the hub, it is covered with Beetle Fight Furnishes John Chinaman With Enjoyment While the Battle Lasts.

Charlie Ling, the importation from the Orient who keeps the laundry in your street, may seem a very sleepy-eyed celestial in the mornings, but you ought to see him at night when he goes to a beetle fight.

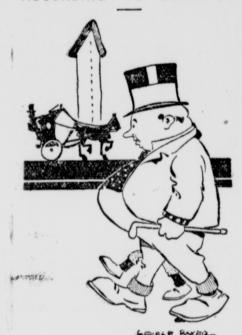

About midnight he and a dozen other Chinamen will gather in a little back room. Charlie rolls cigarettes with his long, slim, yellow fingers and talks in a gurgle. Another Chinaman puts a bowl with a glass cover on a table. Inside the bowl two beetles are placed.

Then the fight starts. A circle forms about the table as the Chinamen edge closer to watch the battle between the two little insects. Occasionally there is a low word spoken. The eyes of the Chinamen are bright. They are betting on their favorite beetles. The large, dark beetle is the favorite. Charlie Ling has a month's profits from his laundry on that one. The beetles struggle across the sides of the bowl. Back and forth they roll, each trying for a death grip. Suddenly they are motionless.

Snip! The head of the smaller insect rolls off. The big one is the winner.

Immediately bets are paid up. There is chattering in the native tongue, then a silence. The Chinamen file out of the room and only the headless beetle remains lying in the bowl on the table.

Cattle reeders Becoming Progressive.

A few years ago it was an extremely difficult matter to interest cattle feeders on the subject of cotton seed meal and hulls. Kentucky being a State that produces plenty of corn, hay, oats and other feed, the feeder naturally hates to put cash money into a feed when he feels that he can raise what is necessary. However, the feeders of a progressive type have learned that a few dollars invested in high grade cotton seed meal brings mighty good dividends; in fact, since the silo has come into use in the State, silage feeders have found that it is next to impossible to fatten cattle properly without the use of cotton seed meal. The straight corn feeders have learned that it pays to feed two or three pounds of meal per day to their cattle in addition to their corn. Dairymen have ascertained that there is no better or cheaper base for a properly balanced dairy ration, as high grade cotton seed meal contains 41 per cent. of crude protein, which is one of the most essential ingredients in an animal feed. Another point in favor of the meal feeders, one of the greatest benefits derived from cattle feeding at the present day, is the re-building or re-claiming of the soil, and cotton seed meal adds most wonderfully to the value of manure. Cotton seed hulls are largely used in certain sections of the State as a roughage, and with most satisfying results. The present indications are that there will be more meal and hulls fed in the State than any year in the past on account of the being subject to one of its dangers. relative high price of corn and hay.

Robert Sheridan, South Queen street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says:

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years and have found them to be a remedy that lives up to representations. I suffered greatly from lumbago which came on by attacks, some of which were so severe that I could hardly get around. I had pains through my back and kidneys, at times extending into my shoulders. I was also annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions and I think that the hard work on the railroad was re sponsible for my suffering. I was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Duerson's drug store. They gave me prompt relief and I continued taking them until I was cured."

FROM COTTAGE TO PALACE

German Lad Restored by Court Decree to His Proper Station as a Count.

Count Josef Kwilecki, aged fourteen, who began life in a palace in Berlin and continued it in a tumbledown cottage, has been restored to the palace by the German imperial appeals court, which decided that he is the son of the late Countess Kwilecki and not the child of a charwoman employed at a small railway Express Trains. station.

Thus has been brought to an end a cause celebre which has occupied the attention of one court after another for ten long years.

The Countess Isabella was acown the child of an Austrian Polish woman named Cecilia Meyer, in order to keep in her husband's family an entailed estate worth $10,000 a

At the instance of another branch of the family, who wanted to inherit the estate, the charwoman, Meyer, claimed the child.

The first trial resulted in favor of the countess; in the second, the charwoman won and now the court of appeal has reversed that judgment.

This means that whether the boy be the son of the countess or of the charwoman, he must legally be recognized as the son of the count, in view of the entry in the birth regis-

To Spend $25,000,000 on Roads Honor of One Vote That Resulted in Annexation.

Twenty-five millions of dollars is a large sum to pay out in return for one vote, but the state of Texas is going to spend that amount during the coming year as a result of one solitary vote cast in the state of Indiana many years ago. The curious explanation is as follows:

The annexation of Texas to the Union was accomplished by a majority of one vote in the senate. The deciding vote was cast by Senator Hennegan of Indiana. Senator Hennegan was elected to the senate by one vote in the Indiana house. That vote was cast by Madison March, who was elected to the legislature by one vote. If Texas could discover the identity of the man who cast the one vote that elected Madison Marsh the state would probably name a new county after him. In lieu of that, however, Texas is going to spend the $25,000,000 on its roads.

HOW TEXAS WILL CELEBRATE SEES NO NEED FOR GROOM

Spinster Susan Plans Wedding, But Does Not Propose to Have Man Tagged to Her.

Invitations were extended today to the wedding of Spinster Susan Smith and as the name of the groom was not given an interview was sought with Spinster Sue to find the reason. "There will be no groom," said the spin. "I may have my weaknesses, but fondness for men isn't one of them, thank the Lord! Those wedding invitations are to get presents; that is all any invitations are for. I have given to brides all my life and think it only fair I should get some in return. What's a man, anyway? If the bride rolled a clothing store dummy up the aisle no one would know the difference and I don't intend to do even that. I have walked alone all my life and guess I can walk alone to the preacher and get his blessing just as well as if I had a man tagged to me. I don't know what my father City. intends to give me, but I think it should be something handsome, because I don't intend to bring a sonin-law to him for support. ## MILES OF CREPE PAPER.

More than 100 miles of crepe paper, black and purple, was used by citizens of Toronto and other Canadian cities in the mourning decorations in memory of the late King Edward, the paper having been made at a plant of Appleton.

The order comprised 4,000 rolls of paper, one-half black and onehalf purple.

Each roll measured up about 100 feet and the aggregate of the consignment was enough to decorate larger Canadian cities.

The shipment is said to have been the largest of that kind of material ever made from a Wisconsin paper plant.—Appleton correspondence St. Paul Pioneer Press.

COST OF SPONTANEITY.

"I want the office, of course," said the aspiring statesman, "but not unless I am the people's choice."

"We can fix that, too," said his campaign manager; "only you know it's a good deal more expensive to be the people's choice than it is to go in as the compromise candidate."

ALL FOND OF NATIONAL GAME

Old Age and Infancy, and Every Grade Between, Are Interested in Baseball.

I remember being on a Chicago street car, says Ellis Parker Butler, in Success Magazine, sitting beside a nice old lady in mourning, a year or so ago. She was nervous and kept glancing at me and then glancing away again. It made me un-comfortable. I thought she took me for a pickpocket or some other bad man. Finally she could contain herself no longer. She leaned over. "Excuse me," she said, "but have you heard yet how the Cubs game came out?" I hadn't, and her face fell, but in a moment she saw a possible opportunity for consolation. "Well," she asked, "can you tell me who they are putting in the box today?" "How was that for a grayhaired grandma? In Chicago they all talk basefall, from the cradle to the grave. Up to three o'clock in the afternoon no one talks about anything but the game of the day before. From three o'clock on the only subject is the game that is being played. The school child who cannot add two apples plus three apples and make it five apples with any certainty of correctness can figure out the standing of the Chicago nines with one hand and a pencil that will make a mark only when it is held straight up and down on

INSTRUMENT EASY TO PLAY

Russian Balalaika, Much Like Banjo, Has Attained Great Popularity in England.

All things Russian being popular in England, people have taken up the balalaika, a Russian string instrument which a few months ago was unknown there. Now there are thousands of balalaika players and balalaika orchestras enjoy a vogue.

The balalaika is said to be the easiest musical instrument in the world to learn. It consists of three strings across a triangular base. The strings are struck together with the forefinger of the right hand, forming a chord: the left hand moves down the neck of the balalaika, changing the key of the chords, in the same way as a banjo is played.

In fact, the balalaika is a banjo therefore much easier to learn than the banjo. People can learn to play simple tunes on it in ten minutes.

THE RESEMBLANCE.

A new and elaborate buffet opened in the loop district recently, says the Chicago Tribune. A design on the bronze front included the bas-relief of a southern gentleman, with broad hat and goatee.

A group of men standing in front of the place included one who seemed the personification of a Kentucky "majah." His headgear was broad and he was equipped with Buffalo Bill hirsuteness.

"I wonder," mused an observer, "if that man yonder was the model for the bronze panel. Eh?"

"Perhaps," said his companion, gazing upon the tints of the "majah's" complexion. "At any rate, they both got bronzed in the same place."

MAKING A HIT.

At a small stag dinner the only young and entirely unnoteworthy person present sat throughout the meal communing with his own bashful soul, afraid lest by speaking he betray his sophistication. Dessert being served, he felt he must have some of the candied fruit at the other end of the table. Clearing his voice, he fixed the nearest waiter with a glittering eye, and, amid a sudden total silence, peremptorily called out at the top of his voice, "Pigs, fleas."-Circle Magazine.
